TO ORGANIZE A CIVIC FEDERATION

MEETING CALLED TO FORM AN ORGANIZATION PATTERNED AFTER THE ONE FOUNDED IN CHICAGO ELEVEN YEARS AGO BY WILLIAM STEAD, THE AUTHOR OF "IF CHRIST CAME TO CHICAGO"—PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE PROGRAM.

A civic federation is to be organized for the Territory of Hawaii. A meeting has been called for next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Stangenwald Building, for launching the new "movement."

The proposed organization is the outcome of the work of a committee appointed some time ago by the Ministerial Union, although it is no part of the plan that there shall be any other connection between the two than exists between all organizations having altruistic aims.

The meeting next Thursday will be presided over by Rev. John W. Wadman pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Rev. W. D. Westervelt will make an opening, explanatory address on "The Inception of the Idea." He will be followed by Attorney General Lorrin Andrews on "The Need of Such an Organization in Hawaii." D. L. Withington will speak on "Methods of Organization," and P. L. Horne, Principal of the Kamehameha Schools will present a tentative constitution.

A civic federation is thus defined by Rev. W. D. Westervelt: A civic federation is a union or federation of business and professional interests, promoting and protecting the welfare of the commonwealth.

A general invitation is extended to all persons interested in the matters coming within the scope of such an organization. A considerable number of persons have been consulted in the matter and have consented to take part in the preliminary organization, and these are specially asked to be present.

The Civic Federation idea had its inception in Chicago in the winter of 1893-4 during the visit there of William Stead, the founder of the Review of Reviews. It was he who furnished the idea and gave it its initial impulse. Since then it has developed to the extent that very many cities now have civic federations, and there is a national organization of these of which Marcus A. Hanna was the president at the time of his death.

It was as a result of this visit that Stead wrote his celebrated book "If Christ Came to Chicago."

STRANGE ANIMAL WANDERINGS

HATS THE MOST MIGRATING OF ALL QUADRUPEDS—LEMMINGS RACE WITH DEATH.

The fable of the country mouse and the town mouse has a foundation in fact. Mice occasionally migrate in large numbers when food grows scarce and travel considerable distances to fresh houses. Farmers in a part of Pershire had a good reason to become aware of this fact when a couple of years ago, vast swarms of mice invaded their cornfields at harvest time.

But the mouse only travels when it has to. The rat, on the contrary, seems to take a yearly outing, in very much the same fashion as human beings do. Rats are the most migratory creatures in the world. Whole troops of rats leave the towns at the end of summer and spend a month or two in the country, apparently in order to enjoy the change of food which the country affords at that time of the year in the way of fresh fruit and grain. Before the cold weather sets in they are all back in their old quarters.

Reindeer migrate with the same regularity as swallows. They move north when winter sets in, but as soon as ever the snow begins to melt they travel steadily north, sometimes for as much as a thousand miles.

To end a holiday by deliberate suicide is so strange a phenomenon that for a long time naturalists looked upon the stories of the migration of the lemmings as an improbable fiction. Yet the facts are beyond dispute. At regular intervals these ratlike creatures start out from their homes in the fastnesses of Northern Scandinavia in huge droves, numbering tens of thousands, and travel steadily southward. Death pursues them in a hundred forms. Hawks and other birds of prey hover above them. Foxes, wolves and man decimate them. Thousands are drowned in rivers. Yet the rest struggle on until they reach the sea. They do not stop. They plunge in, swim out and struggle on, until at last their strength fails and they drown. Not one ever returns from this journey of death.

JUPITER HAS NEW SATELLITE

PROFESSOR PERRINE'S DISCOVERY WITH CROSSLEY REFLECTOR AT LICK OBSERVATORY.

SAN JOSE January 5.—Professor W. W. Campbell, director of Lick Observatory, reports that a sixth satellite of Jupiter has been discovered by Professor Perrine by means of the Crossley reflector. Photographs of the region immediately west of Jupiter taken with this instrument early in December showed the image of an unknown body, which changed its position from night to night.

Further observations needed to decide whether this was a new satellite or one of the asteroids have been secured this week, and leave no doubt that the body is revolving around the planet Jupiter. Last night it was forty-five minutes of arc due west of the planet and the distance is now slowly decreasing.

The satellite is of the fourteenth magnitude or slightly brighter, and requires a telescope of ten or twelve inches in diameter to perceive it. Its orbit cannot be determined till observations have been secured extending over many weeks. It may, however, be stated that this moon is five or six times farther away from the planet than is the outermost of the five satellites hitherto known, and its period of revolution around the planet may be from six to eight months.

These observations are among the first made with the Crossley reflector since it has been provided with a modern mounting which was made possible mainly through the generous interest of Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst. The four brightest satellites of Jupiter were discovered by Galileo in the year 1610. The fifth one, much fainter, was discovered by Barnard with the Lick telescope in 1892. The fifth and sixth satellites are of about the same brightness.

ANNUAL INSPECTION OF ISLAND LIGHTS

MAUI AND MOLOKAI LIGHTS VISITED BY INSPECTOR AND ENGINEERING OFFICER.

Captain Niblack and Lieutenant Slattery returned on Sunday afternoon from their annual inspection of the various lights on Maui and Molokai. They were out in the U. S. S. Itasca on a special trip.

The report of the vessel having gone to Hilo was an error, the wireless message from Captain Niblack to Captain Lyons getting confused in some way, in transmission.

The sites for the location of buoys at Kahului, Kaunakakai, Kamalo Reef and Lahaina were selected. As soon as Captain Niblack can secure the sinkers for mooring the buoys, the work of laying the marks will be commenced.

Quite an odd accident occurred last Friday during some firing that was in progress aboard the Itasca. One of the Lee 5 millimeter rifles was wrecked by an explosion of the charge that blew the stock to pieces. The bullet remained in the barrel. The man firing the charge was not injured. The Lee rifle in use in the Navy is of .236 caliber, the smallest in use in the world.

NO OFFICIAL MAIL.

The post office officials will send no mail by the S. S. Nebraska to the mainland. General Agent Morse of the American-Hawaiian line, sent a wireless message to Kahului this morning enquiring what time the Nebraska was likely to get away for San Francisco. If she sails tomorrow afternoon mail sent by way of the steamer Likelike leaving here at 5 p. m. today will catch the vessel and get to San Francisco a day ahead of the S. S. Korea leaving here next Friday, but if the Nebraska sails on Wednesday she will not get mail to the coast any earlier than the Korea.

THIEVES ASK PARDON.

Governor Carter received a petition today for the pardon of Matthias Baptista and John Cordova. Two men now doing time for stealing cattle on Hawaii. A former petition was refused and a similar fate seems in store for this one.

AN ENJOYABLE OUTING.

The most attractive day's outing is that afforded by the excursion down the railroad line. The HALEIWA LIMITED, a first-class train, leaves Honolulu every Sunday morning at 8:22 o'clock making the run in two hours, the rate for round trip being only $2.00, from 10:22 a. m. until 8:10 p. m. is spent at the beautiful HOTEL HALEIWA, with fresh and salt water bathing, tennis, golf drives and walks, shooting or fishing and you are back in town at 10:10 o'clock in the evening.

GENEAU CASE NEARS AN END

EVIDENCE WAS CONCLUDED THIS MORNING—DOCTORS FOR PROSECUTION ADMIT UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION THAT THE ACCUSED MAN MAY HAVE BEEN SUFFERING FROM TEMPORARY ABERRATION WHEN HE SHOT THE NEGRO HARRIS.

From the crowd that gathered in and about Judge De Bolt's court this morning it was obvious that the trial of Master-at-Arms Geneau of the U. S. gunboat Wheeling for the alleged murder of the negro ex-prize fighter "Useless" Harris, is attracting general attention. The line of the defense developed on Saturday to be that Geneau when he shot Harris was suffering from temporary mental aberration owing to the blows that he had received on the head from the fists and boots of Harris and his friend, the other negro, Kinnard. Expert medical testimony was called to prove that this was probably the case and this morning Attorney General Andrews was present with several well known doctors to give evidence in rebuttal.

The result of the morning's testimony was a decided victory for the defense for while the Attorney General's witnesses gave as their belief that Geneau was not suffering from the results of the beating he had received when he did the shooting, all admitted on cross-examination that he might have been so suffering and would not specifically deny the allegation of the medical men called by the defense. This in itself will introduce the element of "reasonable doubt" which it must be the duty of the jury to exercise in favor of the accused man.

Both prosecution and defense rested and the court adjourned until 2 this afternoon when the jury will be addressed.

Dr. J. Howard Humphris who was first called by the defense in rebuttal was asked the hypothetical question by the Attorney General as to whether from his medical experience he thought that Geneau was suffering from a mental aberration when he did the shooting as a result of the blows received by him from the negroes and as described in the testimony.

The doctor said that he thought not, that the concussion was not definite. He had never heard of such a case. The man had not taken any action that was "strange or inconsequent" and he thought that he would be responsible for his actions.

Cross questioned the doctor admitted that a man might be caused to suffer from an acute mania by blows on the head and that he would then be irresponsible.

Dr. Sloggett of the Asylum did not think that Geneau was suffering from the effects of the blows because if the blows were as described the damage done would have caused more serious injury.

"It would be possible but not probable," said Dr. Sloggett under cross-examination by Attorney Watson. "Almost anything is possible in dealing with so delicate an organ as the human brain."

Dr. C. B. Cooper believed that the man's aberration was more probably occasioned by excessive alcoholism but blows on the head might cause a condition in which a man would be unable to form an intent or even of an ability to act on an intent.

Dr. C. B. Wood did not think that the symptoms as described suggested that Geneau was suffering from concussion of the brain. A man receiving such blows might have concussion and his brain would not then be in a normal condition.

"Do you consider a man as responsible for his actions while he is suffering from a temporary aberration?" he was asked by the defense.

"Certainly not," replied the doctor.

The prosecution wished to recall Captain Parker of the police to testify as to the alleged lumps on Geneau's head the day after the shooting but Attorney Douthitt objected that the evidence as rebuttal was not proper. Judge De Bolt sustained the objection.

Dr. H. P. Wayson, who had been called by the prosecution but not questioned was called by the defense. He differed from his medical brethren by swearing to his belief that under the conditions described, Geneau was suffering from concussion and mental aberration and was not responsible for his acts.

This concluded the testimony. During all the examination of the medical man different of the jurors asked searching questions of a nature which seemed to indicate a decided bias for the defense.

WHERE IS ROJESTVENSKY?

VICE-ADM. ROJESTVENSKY

GOT A THOUSAND FOR A FINGER

SEAMAN WILLIAM JACKSON RECOVERS SUBSTANTIAL DAMAGES BECAUSE THE FORE-TOP-GALLANT-SHEET OF THE BARKENTINE ENCORE BROKE WHEN HE WAS HAULING ON IT—AN INTERESTING DECISION FOR SEAFARING MEN.

In the U. S. District Court this morning Judge Dole handed down a judgement for $1000 in favor of William Jackson in his suit for damages against the American barkentine "Encore." While engaged in hauling at the clew of the fore-top-gallant sail on leaving Newcastle, the sheet broke and the libellant fell breaking a finger. Chronic synovitis set in and the man has been unable to work as a seaman since. He alleged in his bill that the action was caused by the negligence of the ship's owners in not having safe tackle.

The decision in part runs thus:

"I find that the respondents are responsible for the breaking of the rope by which the accident occurred to libellant.

"Counsel for respondent argued that there was no evidence that the diseased state of libellant's hand was caused by the accident and that the evidence showed that the libellant was in a delicate state of health at the time he shipped on board the vessel, having had an attack of malarial fever which had previously compelled him, on several occasions, to remain at different hospitals for treatment, and that the trouble with his hands may have arisen from such malarial condition. The authorities are nearly unanimous in the view that a predisposition to disease, or the existence of latent disease in the system of a person who receives an injury which causes such disease to break out, does not deprive him of his right to damages from the fact of such predisposition or the existence of latent disease in his system.

"In accordance, therefore, with the prevailing American authorities, I find that the diseased condition of the libellant's hand was due to the injury which he received as shown by the evidence, which injury was the proximate cause thereof.

"The question of damages in this case is a difficult one, from the fact that there is little evidence to definitely show how the libellant is affected in his employment as a sailor. His own testimony, which is the only testimony on this point, is that he is, in consequence of the condition of his hand, not able to accept employment in a square rigged ship but that he might find employment in fore and aft vessels or steam vessels, but that he cannot work as well as before because he can only hold a rope with one hand. There is no evidence as to his age; it is therefore impossible to say exactly what damages would make up to him for his injuries. From the evidence of the medical experts, he is never likely to recover the full use of the diseased finger.

"Damages to the amount of five thousand dollars were asked for. Under all the circumstances of the case I feel that a judgement of one thousand dollars is reasonable, and will sign a decree to that amount with costs."
